Social Identity Wheel

The Social Identity Wheel is a diagram that illustrates how identity comprises multiple components.

By thinking of identity not as a single thing, but as made up of many things, we can more easily find similarities with others, including those we often think of as not belonging to our group.

QUESTIONS TO DISCUSS

- Looking at the Social Identity Wheel, discuss:
- Which elements matter a lot to your identity?
- Which elements do not matter to you?
- Which elements do you first notice about others?
- Talk to everyone in the group and for each person, find at least one element you have in common.
